

February 1, 2010

End of Life announcement for Motorola W24 WiFi wireless module

Dear Valued Customer,

This notice is to officially inform you that the Motorola W24 Wi-Fi wireless module has reached its end of life, due to lack of continued support by outside vendors and natural technology evolution.

In order to cover your need for on-going projects, you can place your last orders by August 1, 2010, while your last time buy product will be built and shipped out for delivery by December 31, 2010.

Any order will be considered non-cancelable and non-returnable.

As one of our valued customers, we will continue to provide you with dedicated support and assistance when you need it, as we have done before.

Please feel free to personally contact me or your regional sales manager with any questions, concerns, or for learning how our other products may fill your future needs.

Best Regards,

Yossi Lovton

Product Portfolio Manager